

The image is a detailed architectural site plan of Nakbe, Guatemala. It depicts a complex of structures, including several large, multi-tiered platforms. A prominent feature is a large platform at the lower left, which exhibits a triadic form. The plan also shows numerous smaller buildings, courtyards, and a network of paths. A scale bar indicating 50 meters and an arrow pointing upwards are included for orientation. The drawing is a black and white line drawing.

Nakbe
Peten, Guatemala

R.D. Hansen, Director
UCLA RAINPEG

Fig. 3.4. Map of Nakbe, Guatemala: the core of the site is a series of monumental Preclassic platforms, some (as at lower left) exhibiting the triadic form typical of this era.